

ALTA MILE HIGH: Market Analysis & Competitive Strategy

A Systems Approach to Positioning
in the Denver Luxury Landscape

January 2026 | Prepared for Stakeholders & Candidate Review

Executive Summary: Asset Profile & Vital Statistics

ASSET DATA

-  Property: Alta Mile High
-  Address: 1450 Morrison Rd, Denver, CO 80204 (Sun Valley)
-  Management: Greystar Real Estate Partners & Wood Partners
-  Product: Studio, 1BR, 2BR, 3BR luxury apartments
-  Status: New luxury community (Opened 2024-2025)

STRATEGIC THESIS & FINANCIALS

-  The Big Idea: Accessible luxury with authentic cultural programming (Music/Arts focus), capitalizing on the emerging Morrison Road corridor.
-  Pricing Strategy: Competitively priced at ~11% below area average.
-  Incentives: Aggressive lease-up concessions (Up to 10 weeks free).
-  Net Effective Rent: 1BR starting low $1,300s; 2BR starting low $2,000s.

The Meta-Analysis: The Problem with Circles

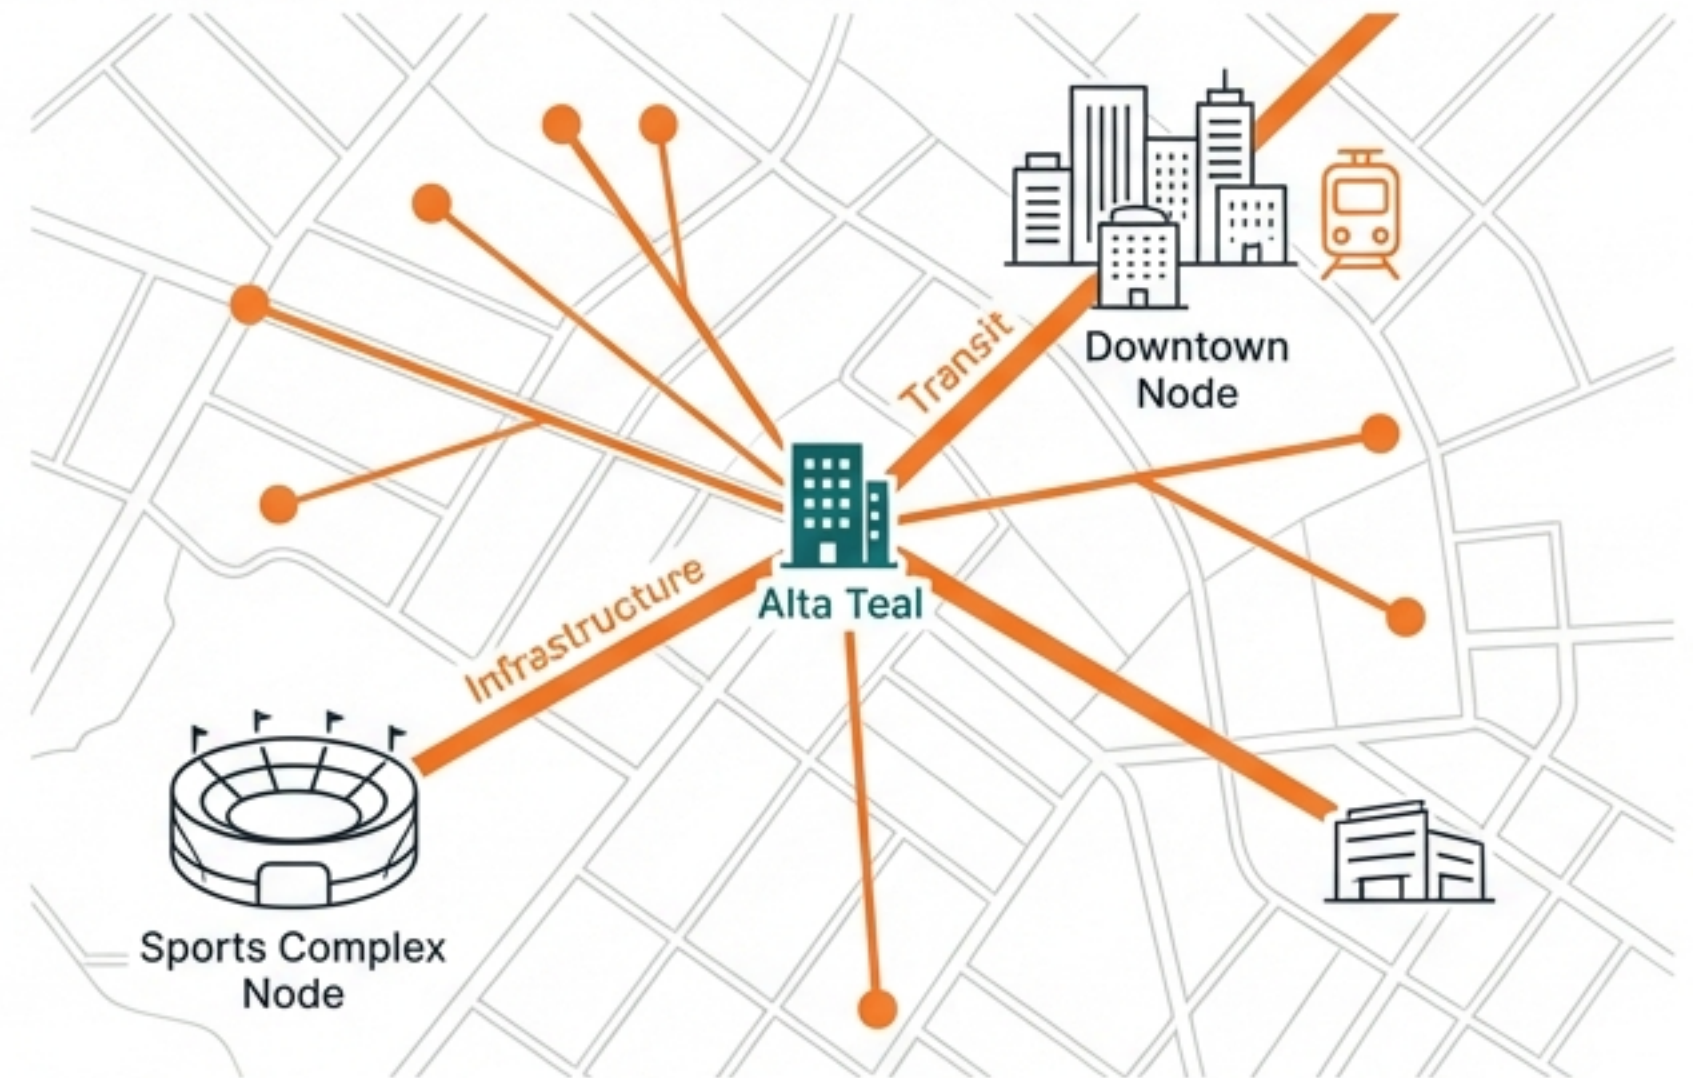

Moving from Geographic Proximity to Networked Systems

The Trap: Traditional Model

Assumption: Neighbors = Competitors.

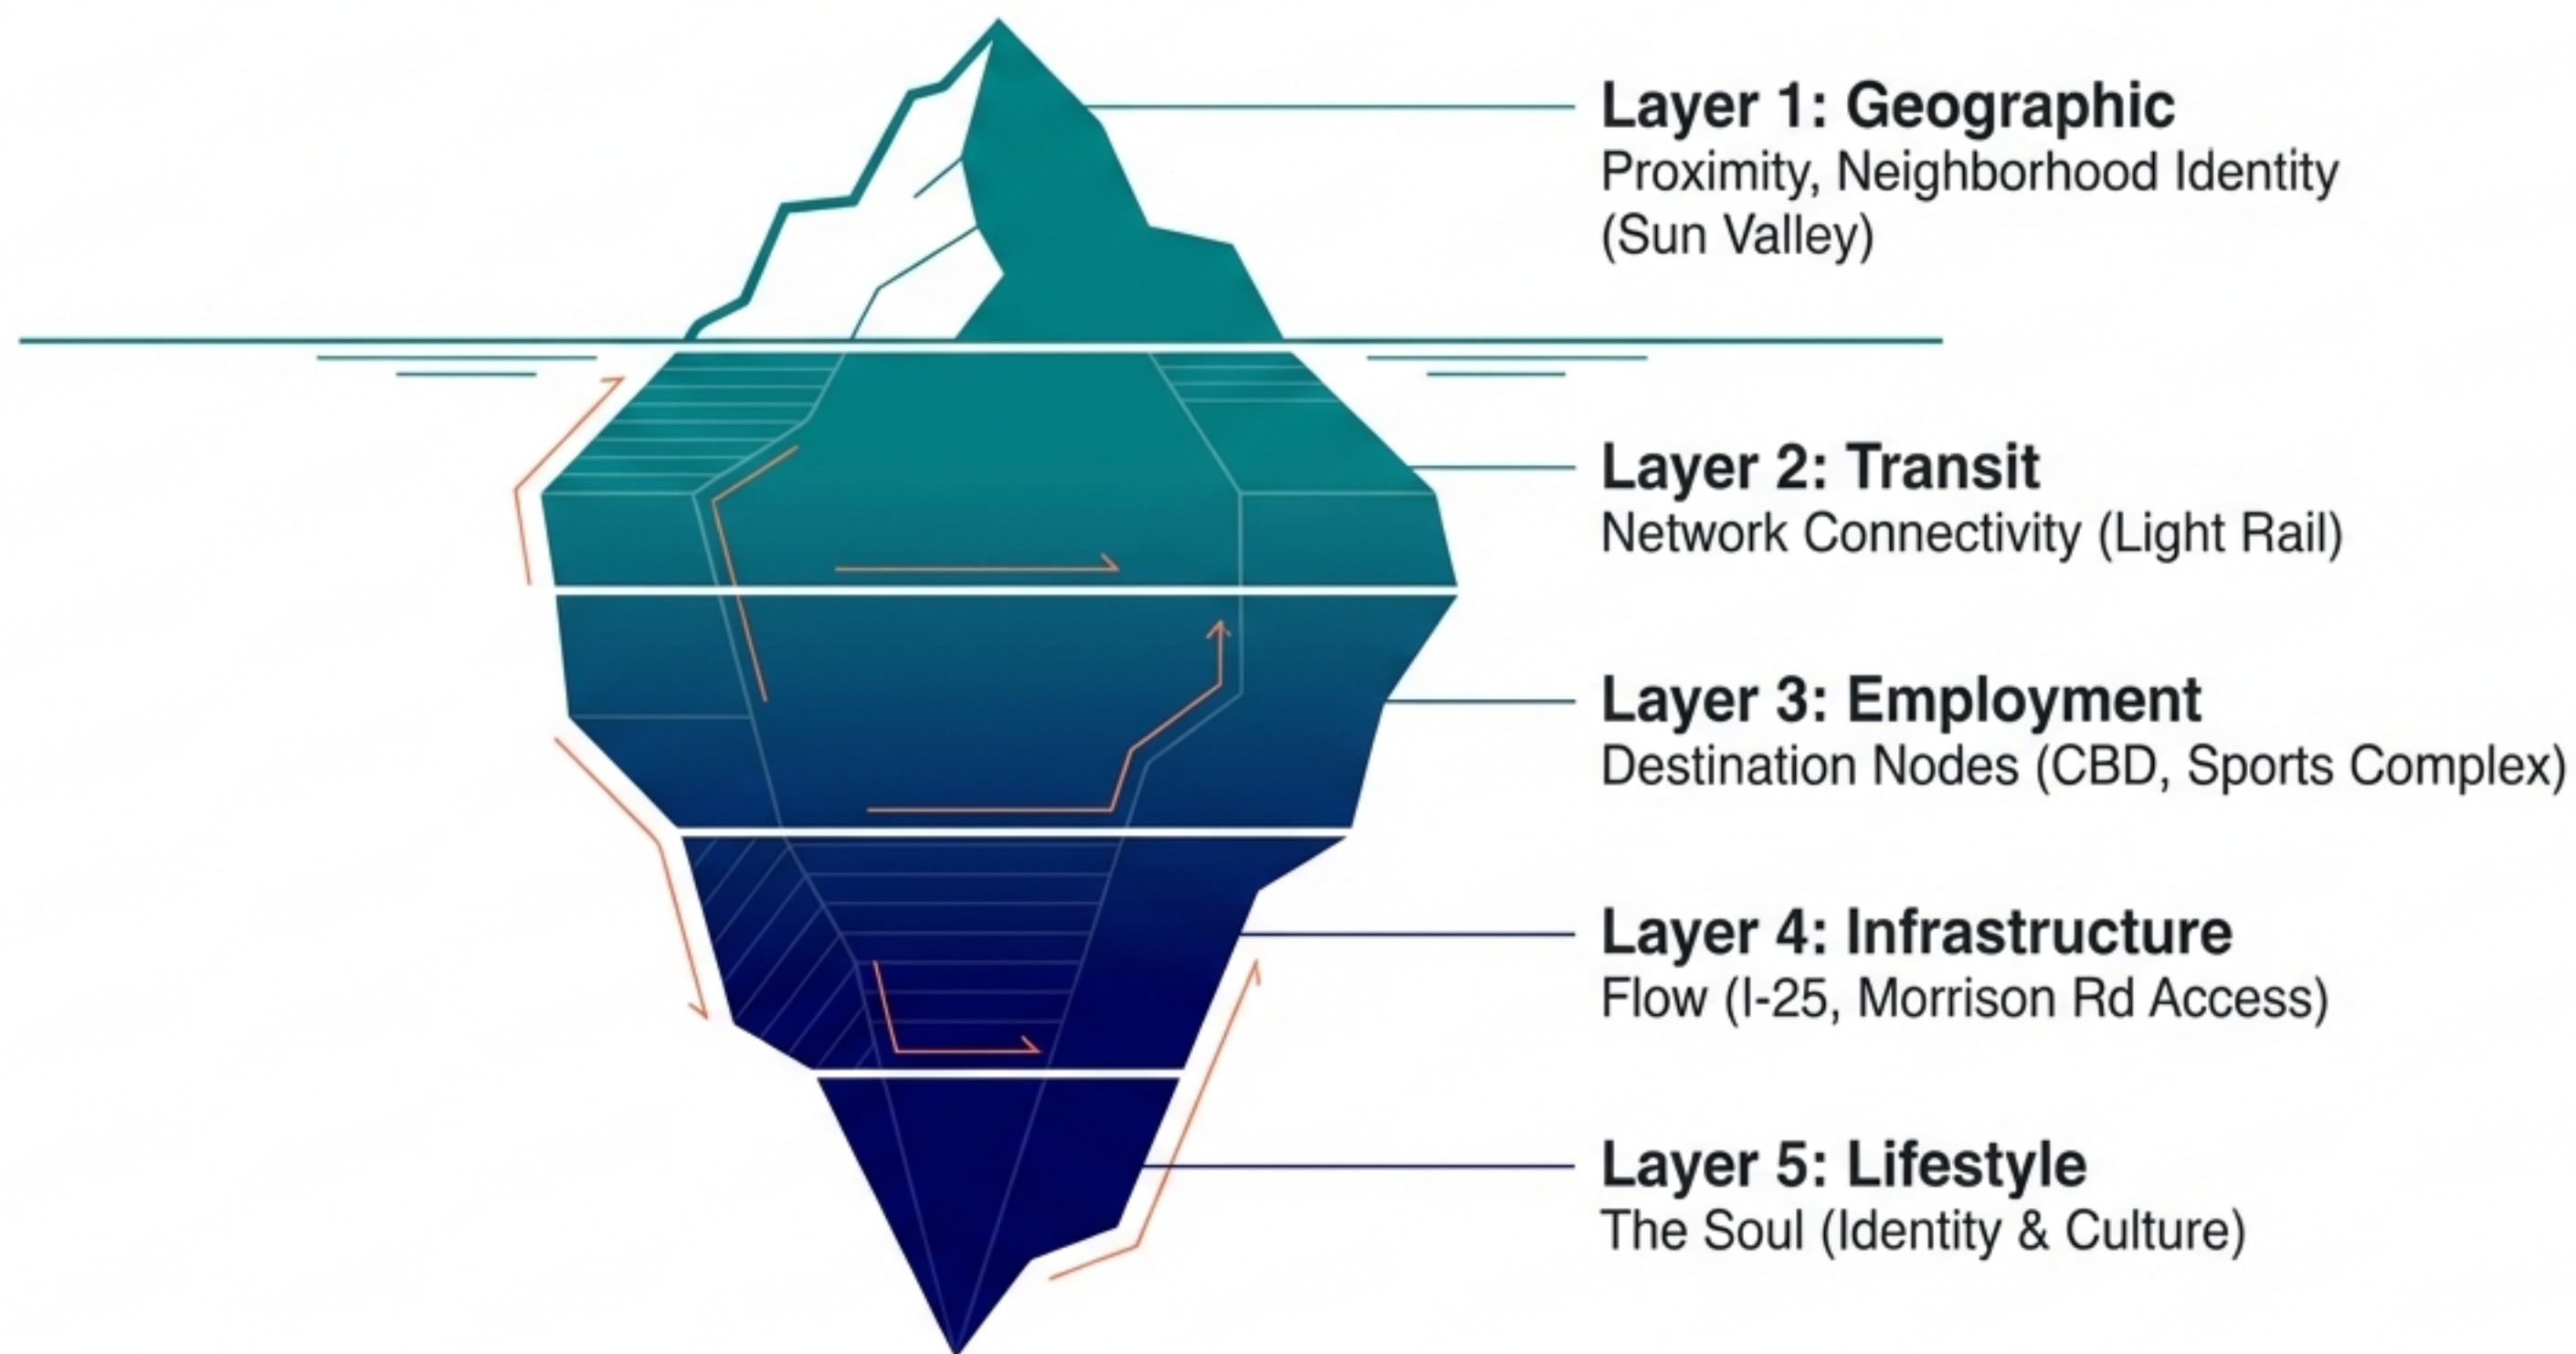

The Reality: Systems Model

Reality: Renters prioritize Networks, Nodes, and Identity.

The Shift: Modern renters don't just choose a neighborhood; they choose a system.

The 5-Layer Competitive Framework

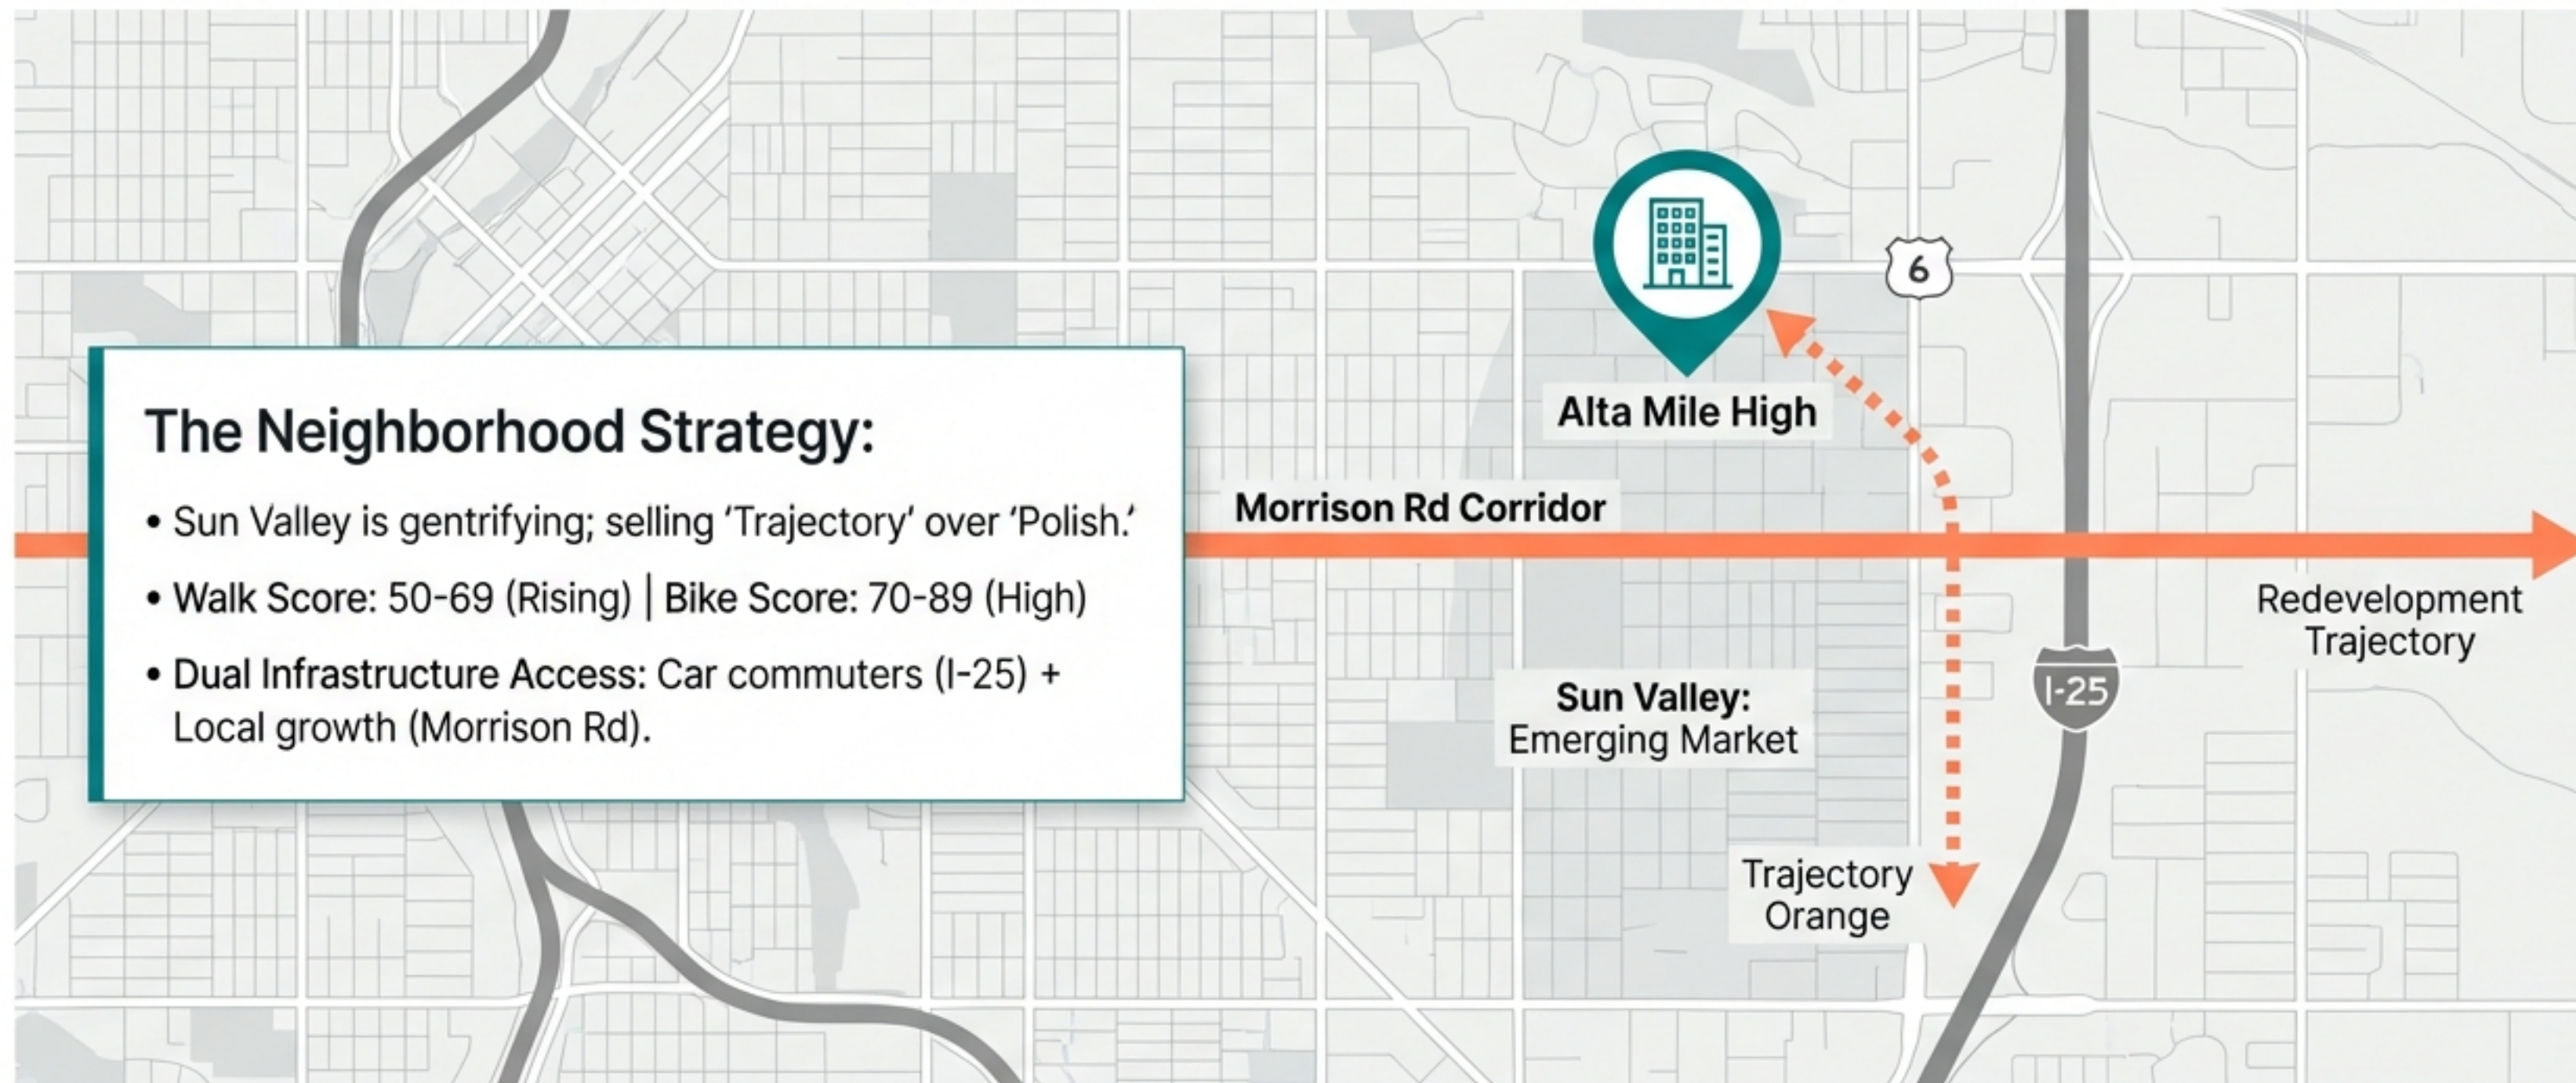

Layers 1 & 4: Geography & Infrastructure

Capitalizing on Future Value vs. Current Polish

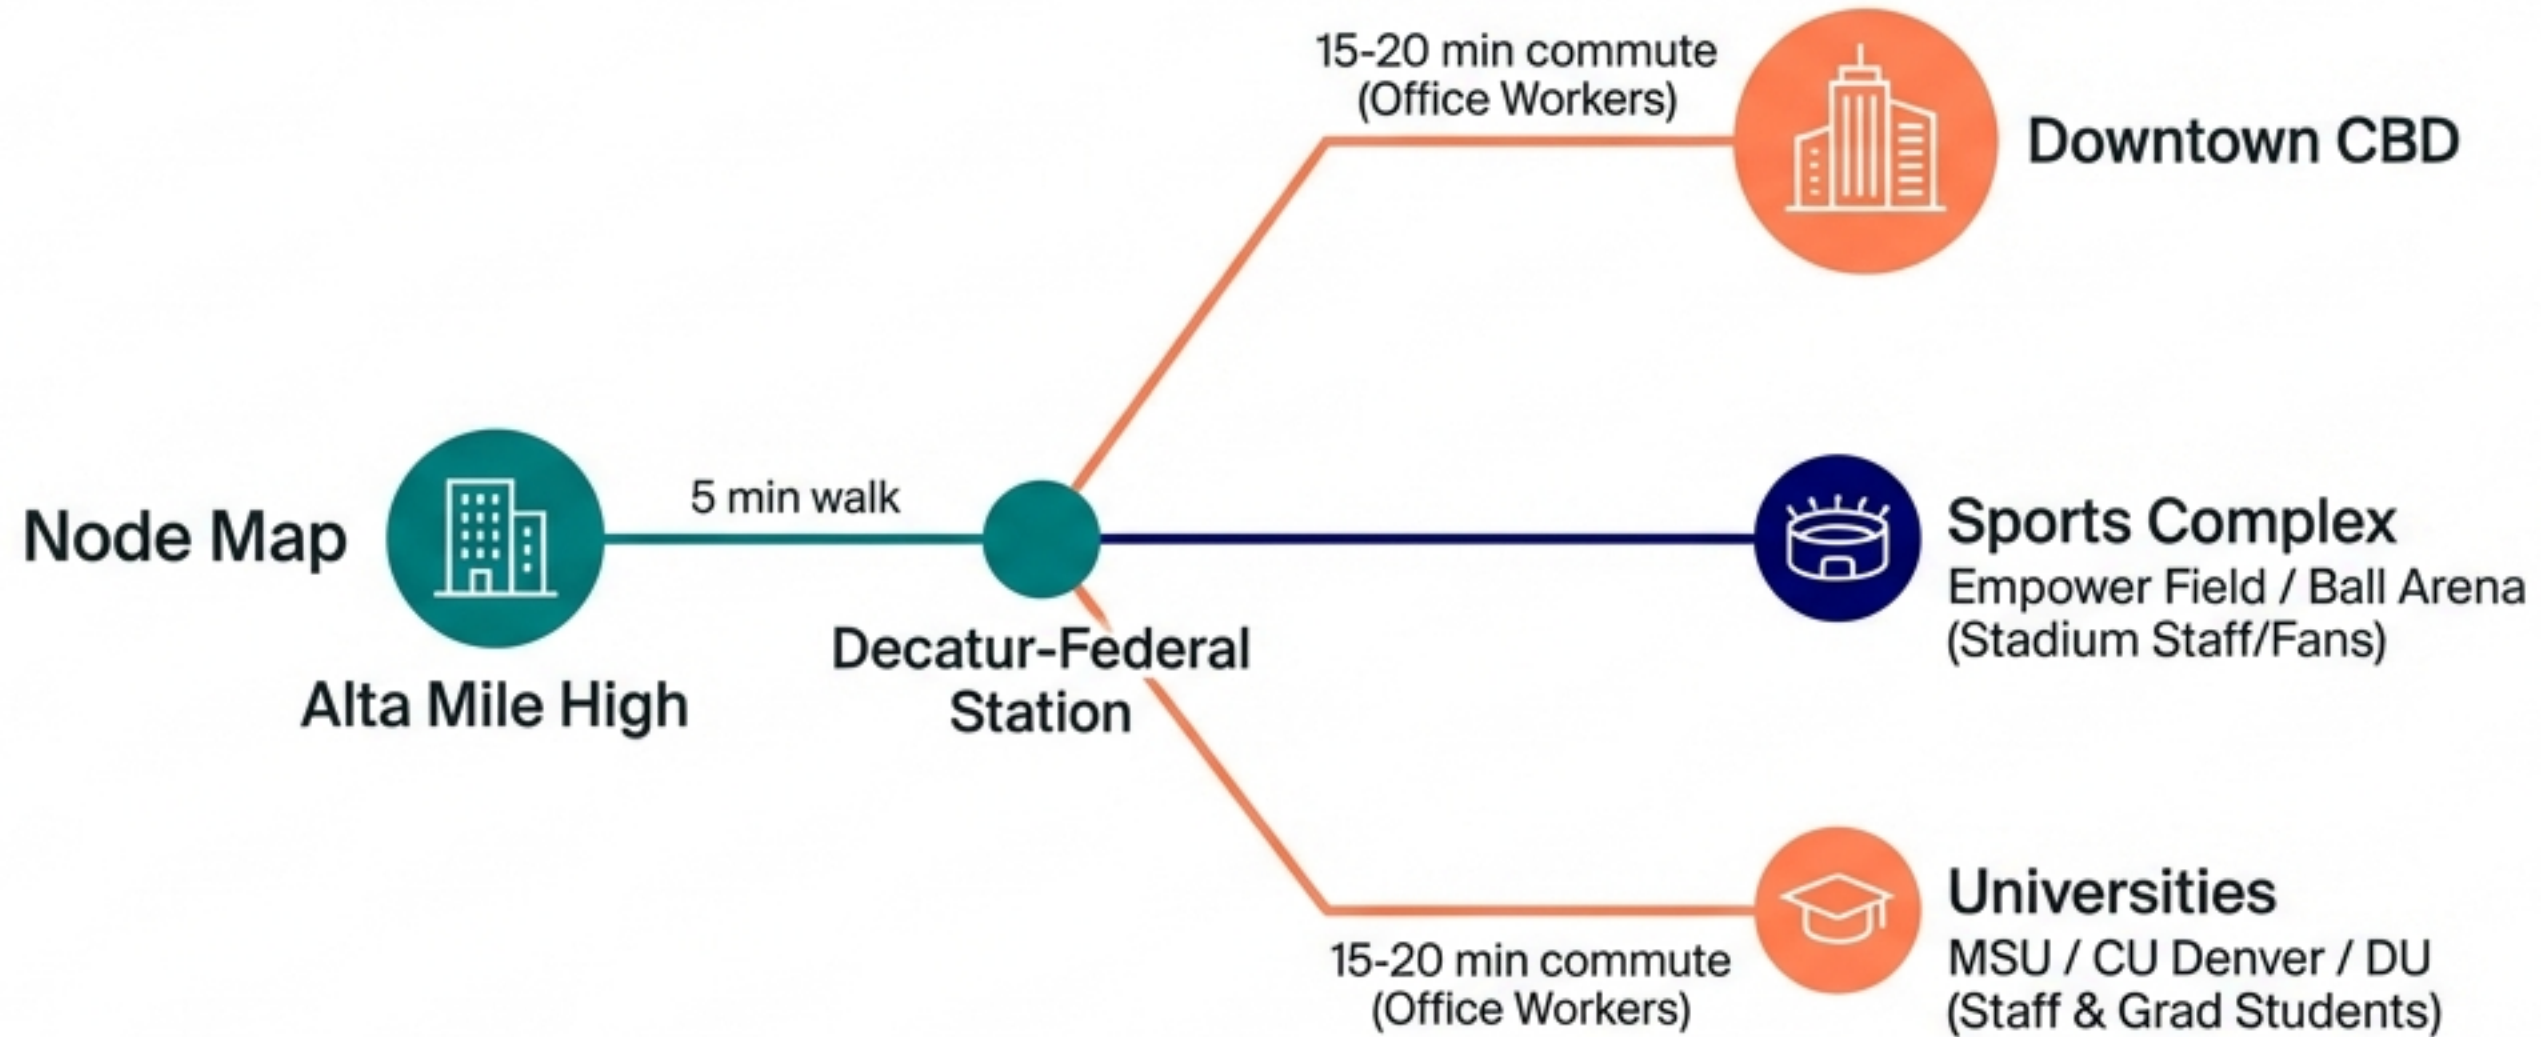

The Neighborhood Strategy:

- Sun Valley is gentrifying; selling 'Trajectory' over 'Polish.'
- Walk Score: 50-69 (Rising) | Bike Score: 70-89 (High)
- Dual Infrastructure Access: Car commuters (I-25) + Local growth (Morrison Rd).

Layers 2 & 3: Transit & Employment

Connectivity Trumps Proximity

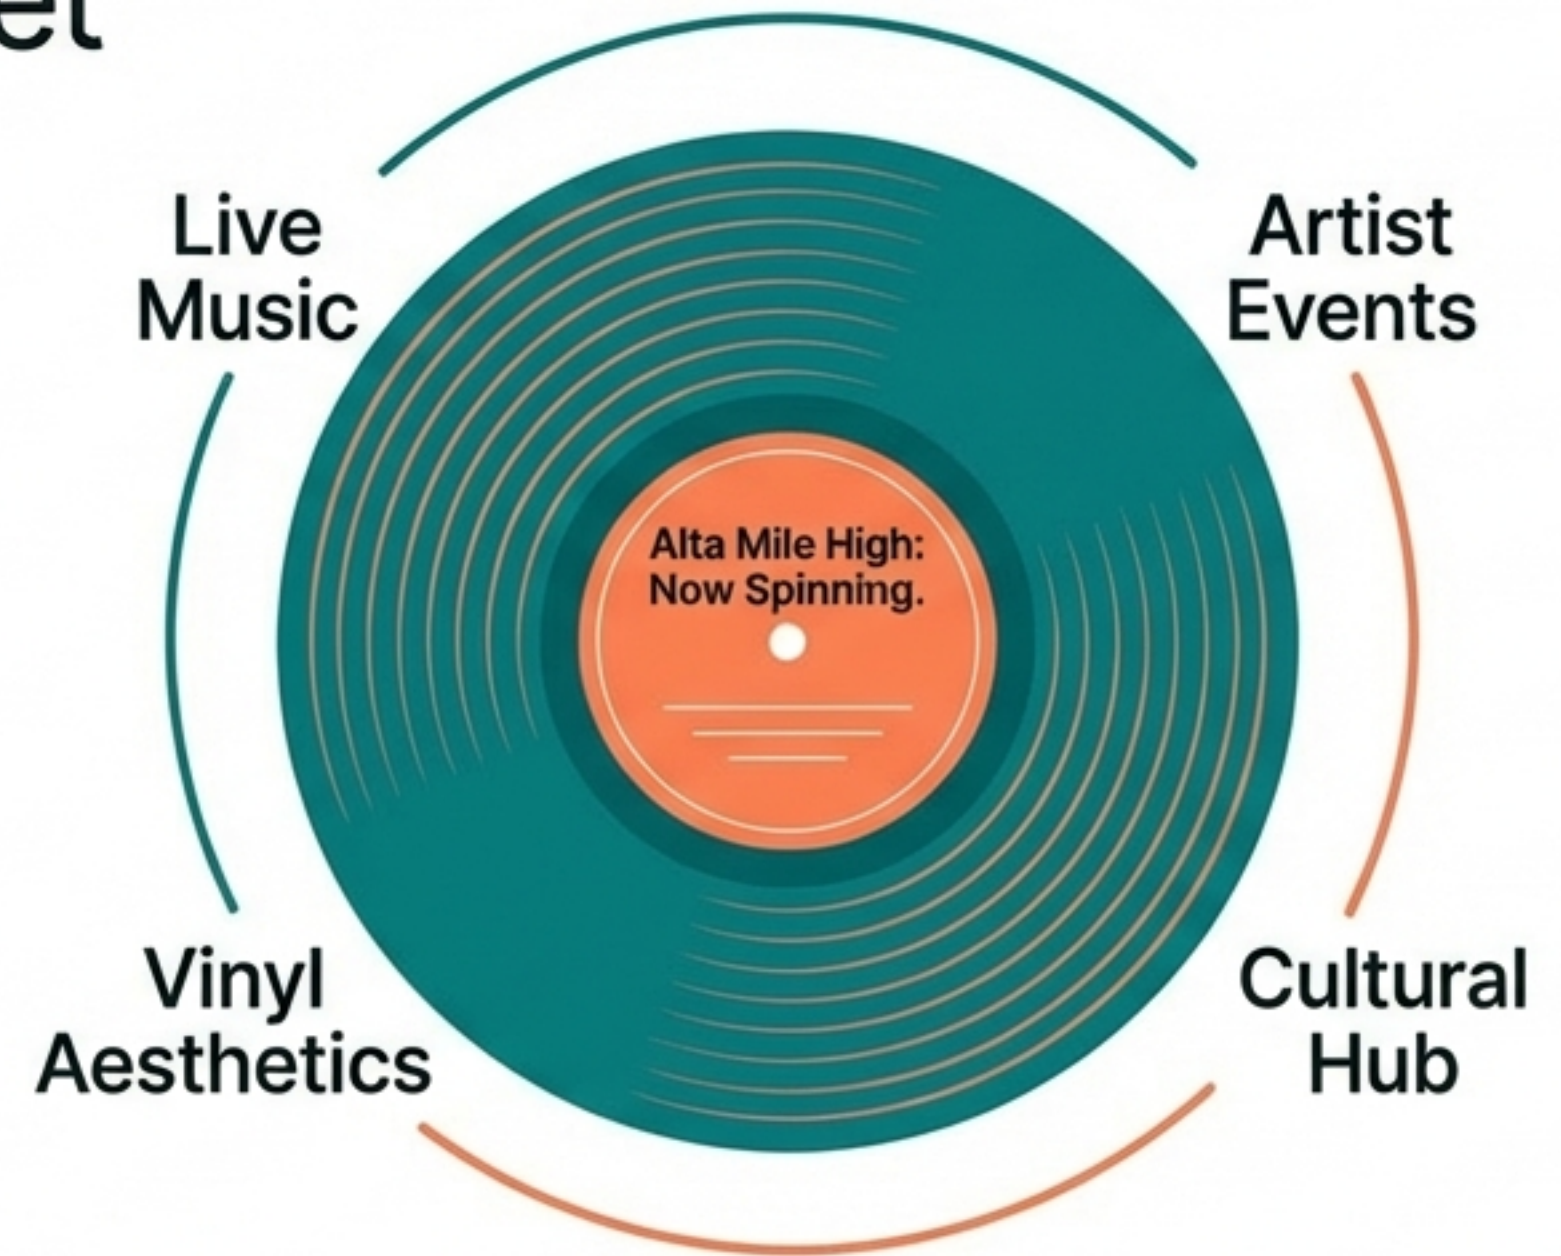

Key Insight Text: The Time Competition: We compete with any property 15 mins from downtown, regardless of neighborhood. For car-free renters, Alta is effectively 'Downtown' at a 30% discount.

Layer 5: Lifestyle & Identity

Defining the 'Soul' of the Asset

- Target: Urban Creatives (25-35)
- Values: Authenticity > Polish
- Driver: Community connection over generic amenities

The Differentiator: While competitors offer generic luxury, Alta owns the 'Music & Arts' niche. Renters cross boundaries for Vibe.

The Competitor Matrix

Deep Dive: Alta Mile High vs. AMLI Broadway Park

The Argument: Future Value vs. Past Premium

The Competitor: AMLI (Baker)

Established,
walkable,
expensive.

The Gap:

Alta is ~$300/mo
cheaper with better concessions (10 weeks free).

Winning Argument:

Don't pay a premium for where the neighborhood IS.
Invest in where it is GOING. Save
$4,000/year for the same finishes.

Deep Dive: Alta Mile High vs. The Dorsey

The Argument: Soulful Community vs. Concrete Tower

The Competitor:

The Dorsey (Five Points) – High-rise, Walk Score 95, Anonymous

The Gap: Alta is ~$400-500/mo cheaper for 1BRs

Trajectory Orange: Winning Argument:

Community with a soul vs. vertical anonymity. Choose connection and value over a ski repair shop you'll use once a year.

Strategic Pillars of Differentiation

Cultural Identity

Not just events, but programming. Vinyl listening nights, artist showcases. Emotional stickiness.

Value Proposition

Net effective rents in low $1,300s. Aggressive 10-week concessions to build momentum.

Transit Access

Car-optional living. 15 min to downtown without the downtown price tag.

Growth Narrative

First-mover advantage in Morrison Rd corridor. Selling the excitement of transformation.

The Script: Controlling the Narrative

Objection:

Sun Valley isn't as nice as Baker.

Script:

Baker is where you pay for the past. Sun Valley is where you invest in the future. You get luxury quality at an entry-level price because you're early.

Objection:

Why 10 weeks free?
Is it desperate?

Script:

It's strategic momentum. We want to build a vibrant community fast. It's a benefit of being a pioneer resident.

Objection:

The Dorsey is closer to downtown.

Script:

True. But is 10 minutes saved worth $500/month? We offer the same Greystar excellence a warmer community feel for $6,000 less a year.

Objection:

The Dorsey is closer to downtown.

Script:

True. But is 10 minutes saved worth $500/month? We offer the same Greystar excellence and a warmer community feel for $6,000 less a year.

Target Audience Profiles

The Urban Creative

Age 25-35.

Driver: Authenticity.

Needs space to create.

Hates “beige” corporate luxury.

Budget-Conscious Luxury

Driver: The Deal.

Wants Quartz and Stainless Steel but priced out of RiNo/LoHi.

The Eco-Pragmatist

Driver: Efficiency.

Needs Light Rail access & bike storage.

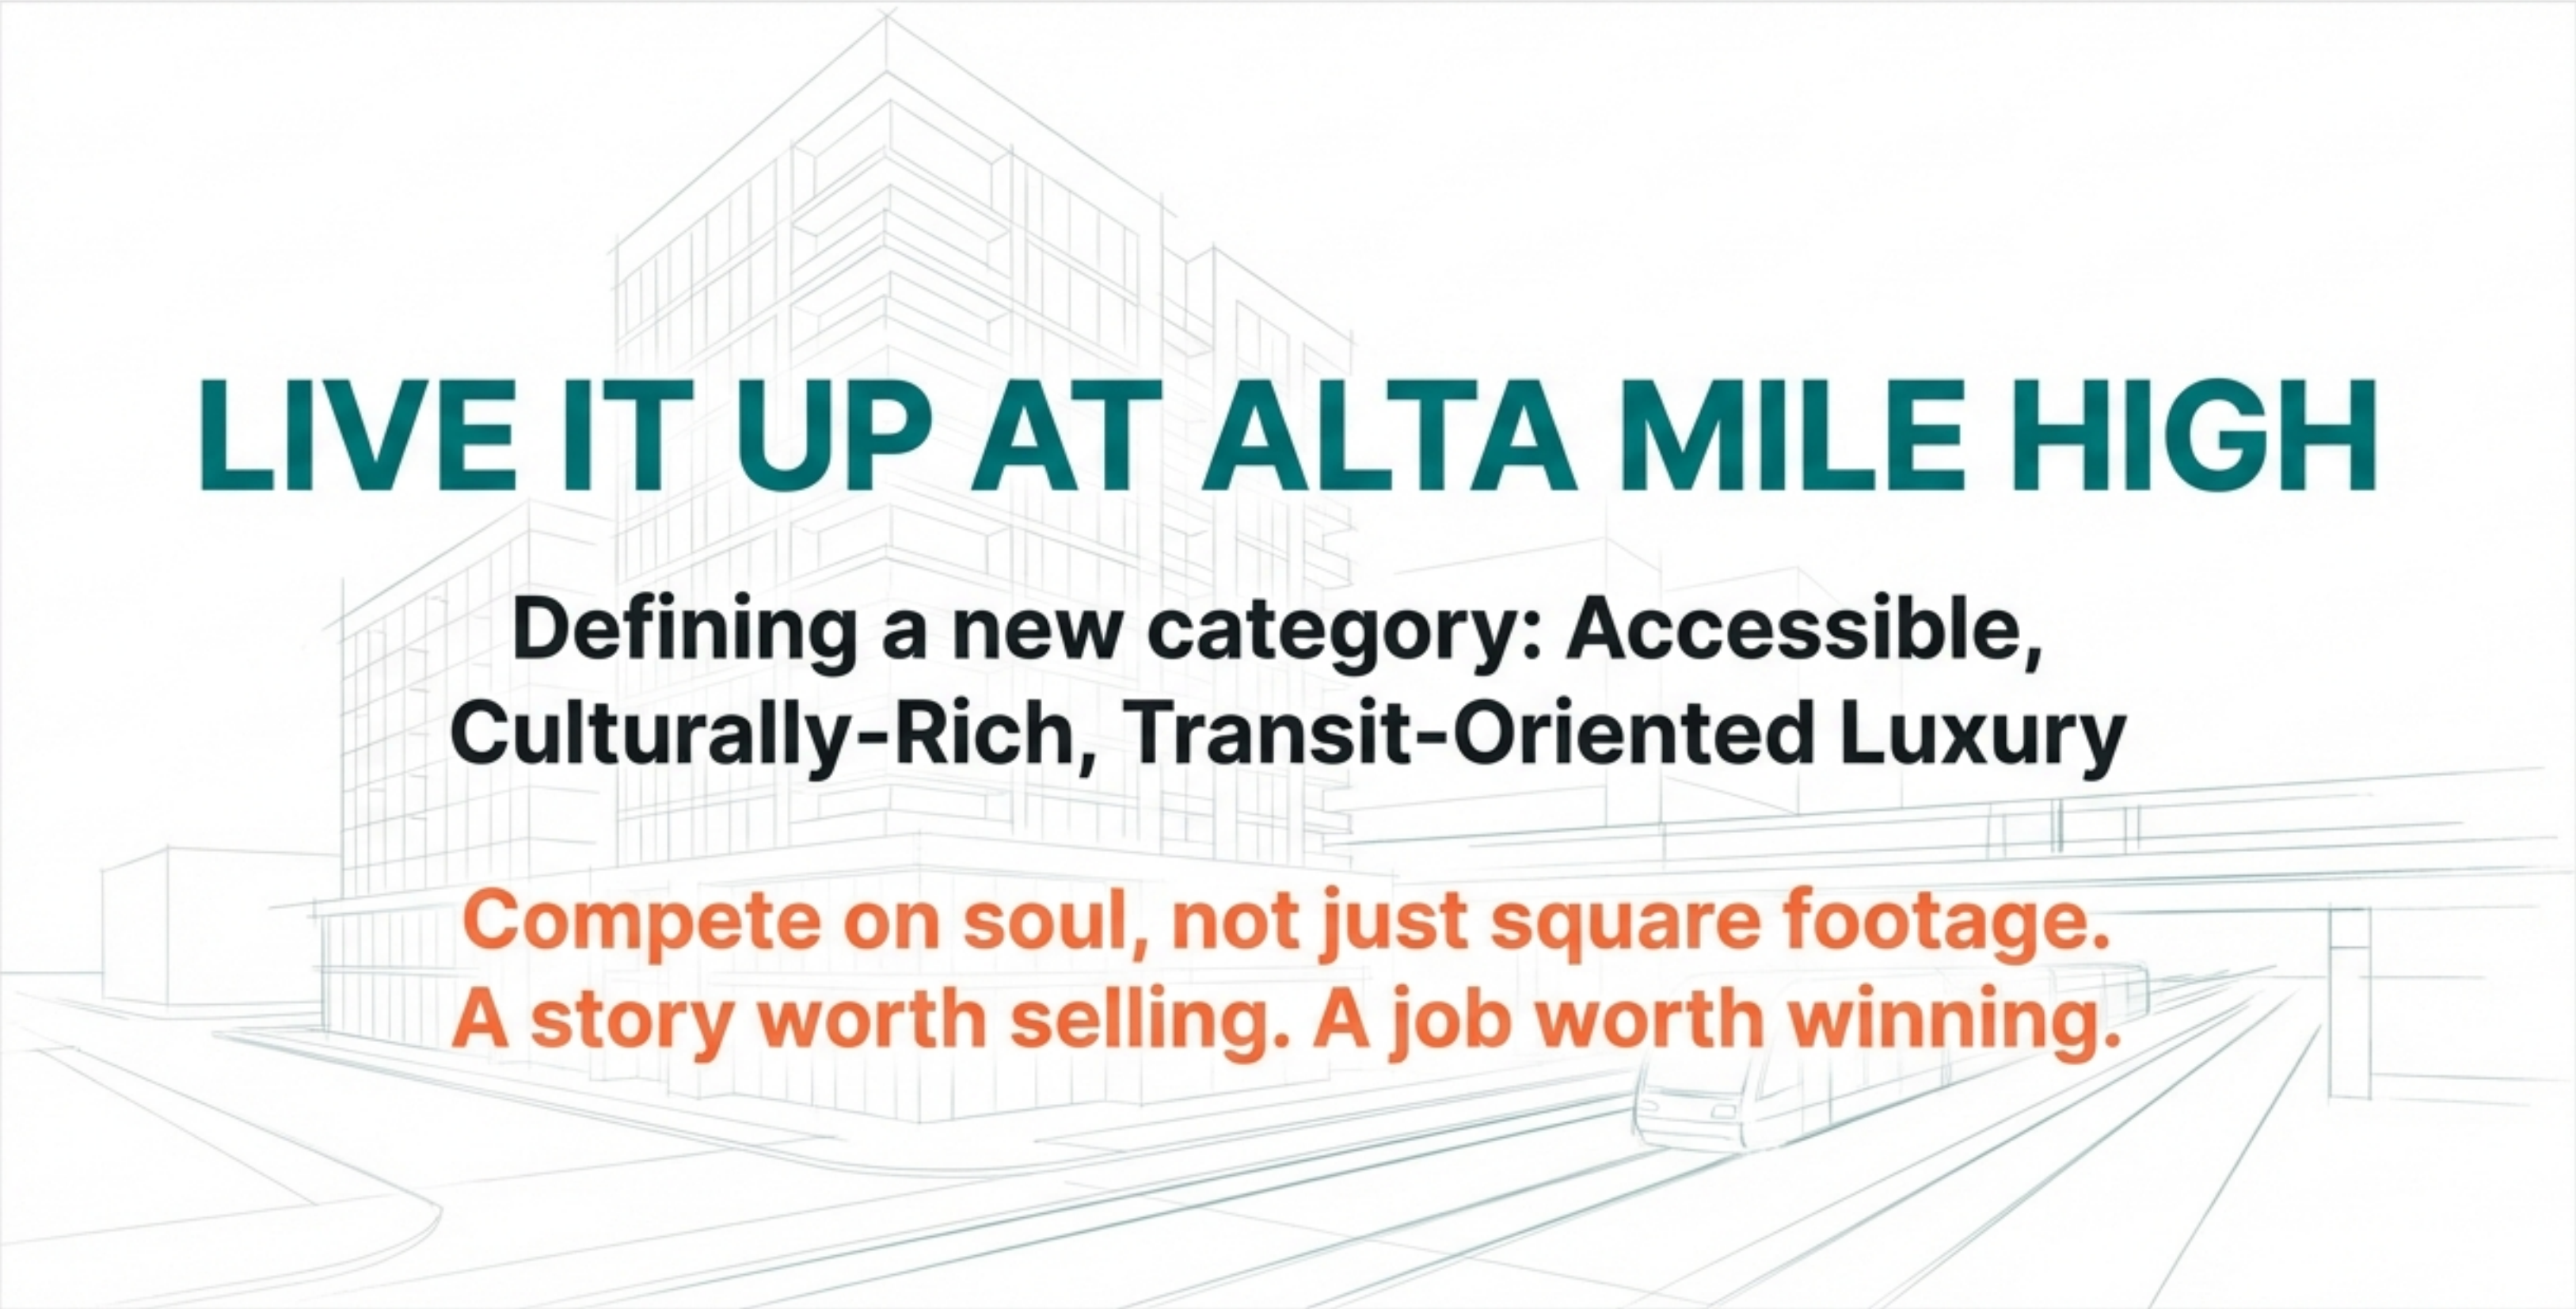

Values sustainability.

Operational Excellence & Execution

Leveraging the Platform to Win

Internal Culture: Metrics-focused, but empowered to innovate on Resident Experience.

LIVE IT UP AT ALTA MILE HIGH

Defining a new category: Accessible,
Culturally-Rich, Transit-Oriented Luxury

Compete on soul, not just square footage.
A story worth selling. A job worth winning.
